chocoMe wins again three international professional awards at the Great Taste Awards

Hungarian chocolate manufactory chocoMe has earned its second set of international awards this year. Having triumphed at the International Chocolate Awards in spring, the creator of amazing chocolate dreams has now collected no less than three bronze medals at the world's most prestigious tasting competition, the Great Taste Awards.

The global competition, open for a wide number of product categories, is well known for its jury of 400 connoisseurs with exquisite taste and unquestionable opinion, who have been mesmerised by the magical compositions of chocoMe for six years running. The panel includes chefs from world renowned Michelin star restaurants, recognised gastronomers, purchasing directors of prime department stores (Harrods, Fortnum&Mason, Selfridges, Harvey Nichols és Whole Food Markets) and well-known food critics who spend several thousand hours blind tasting product samples that are distributed unpackaged and unlabelled.

With these three new awards, chocoMe has reached its 106 international professional award. This means even more recognition for the brand, and even tastier desserts for the customers.

chocoMe products awarded at the Great Taste Awards include:

chocoMe Raffinée RF113

Freeze-dried blackcurrant coated with blueberry yogurt and white chocolate

chocoMe Entrée B109

Dark chocolate bar with violet petals, pistachio from Bronte and freeze-dried black currant

chocoMe Entrée F130
